Goals of the Podcast

This podcast was created with the aim of providing reliable, up-to-date and high-quality information on legal and tax issues to foreign companies based in Myanmar or seeking to do business in Myanmar. This channel is run by the Legal and Tax Advocacy Group at EuroCham Myanmar and offers great insights by leading experts on these topics.

Summary of the episode

Myanmar’s much anticipated new Intellectual Property (IP) Laws were finally passed this year, kicking into gear the establishment of a new IP regime that is more consistent with international standards and frameworks – a move that is hoped to inspire more investor confidence in the country.

Lingyi Quek (Dentons Myanmar) and Eunice Chan (KASS Myanmar) look at an overview of these newly enacted laws and discuss the implementation as well as the implications, risks and opportunities of the trademark law in particular for investors and businesses.

You can listen to it on different platforms (Spotify, Apple, Google, Breaker, PocketCasts, RadioPublic or Stitcher).

Eunice Chan

As the Regional Marketing Manager at KASS, Eunice enjoys working with people who are passionate about their businesses and walking them through the possibilities and opportunities that the various forms of Intellectual Property (IP) rights can afford them. She oversees the firm’s domestic and foreign business development initiatives across its offices in Malaysia, Indonesia, Singapore and Myanmar, and was previously based at the KASS headquarters in Malaysia before moving to Yangon to facilitate the growth of the KASS Myanmar office amidst the current and upcoming changes in the IP landscape.
KASS International is one of Southeast Asia’s leading IP firms. Since 1999, KASS has been on a mission to push the limits of creativity and innovation by turning IP owners into the masters of their own creations – we educate and help protect, maintain and monetize IP rights. Our services cover the whole spectrum of IP rights, from the idea stage right up to the market place, and not just at the tail end or when infringement takes place.
